SB 208 – Opponent Testimony, Written-Only

Aileen Berquist, Policy Director
American Civil Liberties Union of Kansas

Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee

Committee Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Aileen Berquist and I am the Policy Director for the American Civil Liberties Union of Kansas. We are a nonpartisan, non-profit organization that works to preserve and strengthen the civil rights and liberties of every person in our state. Thank you for the opportunity to present testimony today.

The ACLU of Kansas is committed to defending the right to vote and upholding secure, accessible means of voting for all. As such, we are deeply concerned about the many election-related bills introduced this session that limit the accessibility of voting for Kansans or tamper with a well-functioning electoral system because of unsubstantiated concerns about the integrity of our elections. There is not now, nor has there been, any legitimate reason to limit the use of ballot boxes in Kansas. Because of this, we oppose SB 208.

Drop boxes are a safe, convenient, and very popular method for Kansans to cast their ballot. Current drop box procedures protect Kansans' votes—only elections officials can access remote ballot boxes, making these boxes both a secure and reliable method for casting a ballot. Indeed, there is no evidence to show that current drop box procedures are inadequate: just last fall, United States District Court Judge Daniel D. Crabtree found in Roberts v. Caskey that there were no facts to support plaintiffs' claim that ballot boxes are a risk to election security.¹ Limiting the number of drop boxes a county can use does not make voting more secure because there is no proof that they are a security threat—it only makes voting less accessible

Despite the lack of proof of any ballot box tampering in Kansas, and only vague concerns about potential damage to boxes in the future, SB 208 weaponizes election procedures and re-crafts them to make voting more difficult by limiting drop boxes. For many, casting their ballot at a drop box location is their only option. Work, school, family obligations, and transportation are all barriers that make voting in-person difficult. Drop boxes ensure that voters can exercise their right to vote at any time convenient to them, increasing the likelihood that they will participate in our elections. Removing ballot boxes from communities will decrease convenient avenues for voting, likely resulting in less electoral participation.

Voting should be easy and accessible to all Kansas voters. Because SB 208 creates unnecessary barriers to voting, we ask that you not move this bill out of committee. Thank you for the opportunity to provide testimony today.
